ITALY'S LONG-EXPECTED "BIG THRUST" IS UNDER WAY

SIEGE OF KORITZA IS SAID TO BE REACHING MOST CRITICAL PHASE

Italian High Command Declares Fascist Divisions Have Advanced Beyond the Kalamas River On the Northwest Battlefront; Both Sides Reported to Be Rushing Reinforcements to the Sector, With Greeks Holding

DECISIVE BATTLE NOW APPEARS IMMINENT

Italy's long-expected "big push" in the 11-day-old war with Greece was reported under way today as the Italian High Command said Fascist divisions had advanced beyond the Kalamas river on the northwest battlefront.

The Italian invaders had reached the river eight days ago in their thrust from Albania.

Dispatches from the northeast front said the siege of Koritza, key Italian supply base 10 miles inside Albania, where 30,000 Fascist troops have been reported "trapped," appeared to be reaching a critical phase.

Unconfirmed frontier advice reaching Salonika yesterday said Greek mountain fighters, swarming down from the heights around the city had entered Koritza and captured thousands of Italian prisoners.

Military experts discounted the report, however, pointing out that the Greeks would be in a more favorable position by clinging to the mountains—beyond reach of Italian mechanized forces.

Both sides were reported rushing reinforcements to the Koritza sector, with the Greeks still holding the heights above the Albanian town of Bigliste, east of Koritza, despite strong Italian counterattacks.

A decisive battle, it was said, appeared imminent.

Greek and British warplanes bombed Koritza and Argirocastro, another Albanian town, while Italian bombers smashed at the Greek town of Phlorina with reported heavy casualties ensuing.

The Kalamas river roughly parallels the Albanian border from five to 15 miles inside Greece, in the northwest.

Belgrade dispatches said that Italian troops had made "small advances" along the Greek west coast, and that their columns were being bombed by Greek planes.

Greece's High Command acknowledged that Greek forces "retreated slightly" yesterday at the extreme lower (western) end of the 100-mile battlefront, in the Epirus sector along the Ionian Sea.

Neutral Yugoslavia took a sharply stronger stand in the Balkan conflict with a government warning it would answer with "armed force" any repetition of attacks on Yugoslav territory—such as the bombing of Bitolj by unidentified foreign planes Tuesday.

In the battle of Britain, Nazi warplanes gave London's subway-sleeping millions their longest night attack of the war, and in Southampton rescue squads still were working for the dead and living entombed in the ruins of many buildings.

Students and teachers were buried under the rubble of a Southampton school smashed by three German bombs, and clerks and typists were trapped under a demolished row of office buildings.

Dispatches from Southampton said that as British RAF fighter planes roared up to the attack, the German formations dived low.

British Operations At Sea Criticized In House of Commons

London, Nov. 7.—(A.P.)—Commander Robert Tatton Bower, World War veteran and member of parliament, told the House of Commons today there is "definite disquiet about the board of admiralty as a whole" in its conduct of Britain's naval affairs.

He asserted that Sir Dudley Pound, first sea lord, was "not the man he was."

Long noted for his outspoken comment, Bower participated in a short debate on the sinking of the aircraft carrier Glorious with loss of 1,204 men in the Norwegian campaign.

He charged that he was shunted to an "inferior" appointment in the navy after writing to the First Lord of the Admiralty A. V. Alexander that grave "concern" was felt among many responsible members of the naval staff at the conduct of operations in Norway and also in connection with loss of the Glorious.

He declared that the war was not being fought to set up Alexander "as a little pinchbeck Hitler with a tinpot staff."

Bower, a conservative, charged that a "fog of secrecy" had been imposed to "conceal the deficiencies of senior officers."

Alexander rose to deny there ever was "any victimization of Bower" and added: "I have no reason not to pay tribute to the service, capacity and patriotic devotion of the first sea lord (Pound)."

SAFE CONDUCT PLEDGE REFUSED

Washington, Nov. 7.—(A.P.)—The State Department announced today that Germany had refused to give any assurance of safe conduct for an American ship to enter an Irish port to bring home American citizens, although Italy had given such an assurance promptly.

Refusing to give such assurances, the German government was said to have declared that the areas around England were "areas of military operations" and that Berlin was "not in a position to furnish any sort of assurance of the nature requested."

The State Department said the Italian government's prompt and favorable response was furnished to Germany but that despite this the Berlin foreign office declined to act likewise.

The United States had planned to send an American ship, probably the liner Manhattan, to a western Ireland port to bring home about 1,200 American citizens from Great Britain.

In view of the German government's refusal, it was believed the ship would not be sent.

$862,000 CCC HOLDUP SCHEME IS THWARTED

Boston, Nov. 7.—(A.P.)—What was described as a plot to rob an $862,000 civilian payroll at Camp Edwards, on Cape Cod, was thwarted today, army officers disclosed.

Officers said they regretted their discovery of the plot had become known before they had an opportunity to capture "three or four suspicious characters" on the reservation, where they would have been subject to federal prosecution.

The suspects, they said, were from "out of the state."

TACOMA BRIDGE FALLS IN HALF INTO THE SOUND

Tacoma, Wash., Nov. 7.—(A.P.)—The Tacoma Narrows bridge broke in half today.

Parts of the huge span went cascading 190 feet into Puget Sound. No one was on the $6,400,000 suspension structure when it fell.

Still on the structure, however, were an automobile and a logging truck.

The huge suspension bridge, with the third largest span in the world began to crack up shortly after it started to sway sideways in a heavy wind.

A 50-foot section of the roadway fell first.

Then, with its cables twisting wildly, it began to disintegrate.

Last person on the structure was Leonard Coatsworth, a Tacoma News-Tribune reporter who abandoned his car and crawled 500 yards on his hands and knees to shore while the bridge bled tipped to as much as a 45-degree angle.

MICHIGAN VOTE CLOSE

Detroit, Nov. 7.—(A.P.)—Michigan's 19 electoral votes remained in President Roosevelt's column today by a margin of 2,619 in incomplete and unofficial tabulations, with eighteen of the state's 3,632 precincts unreported. The vote was: Roosevelt, 1,026,476; Willkie, 1,023,857.

CARRY MAN DIES

Corry, Nov. 7.—(A.P.)—Frank M. Raymond, 39, vice-president of Raymond Manufacturing Company here and prominent industrialist, died today of a heart attack.

CONTROL SHIFTS IN TEN STATES

Washington, Nov. 7.—(A.P.)—Vote totals pointed today to a possible net Republican gain of one governorship as late tabulations of Tuesday's record balloting showed a shift in party control of ten state administrations, with only two of 33 gubernatorial races still in doubt.

Republicans marked up five victories in previous Democratic territory—Delaware, Illinois, Missouri, Montana and Nebraska in electing 14 governors Tuesday. They also won in Maine in September to bring this year's total to 15.

Democrats took four governorships—Connecticut, Idaho, Michigan and Rhode Island—away from the opposing party in electing 17 state executives.

In addition, a Democrat, William H. Burke, appeared to have unseated Gov. Payne H. Palmer, Kansas Republican, although an official canvass of the vote was needed to determine the winner.

Democrats Will Take Over Large New Caucus Room, and Opponents Will Be Relegated to Old Third-Floor Chamber

NON-PARTISAN ASPECTS

Harrisburg, Nov. 7.—(A.P.)—Tuesday's election had some ironic twists, principally at the expense of the Republicans who lost the house of representatives.

Speaker Ellwood J. Turner, who had a legislative appropriation of $100,000 passed when the Republicans held the house in 1939, to redecorate the speaker's office, expand committee rooms, bring the legislative reference bureau into the main capitol, and provide a new house caucus room, now must watch his work being turned over to the Democrats.

They will take over the large new caucus room and the Republicans will be relegated to the old third-floor chamber, which they previously felt was too small.

The speaker's office will pass to a new Democratic official, and the committee rooms will be taken over by Democratic leaders.

ANNIVERSARY OF RED REVOLUTION OBSERVED TODAY

BY HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Foreign Writer
Moscow, Nov. 7.—(A.P.)—Defense Commissar Semen Timoshenko urged the Red Army to display "maximum vigilance in an exceptionally alarming international situation" as Moscow turned over its Red Square today to the army for a review marking the 23rd anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

Marshal Timoshenko took advantage of the anniversary to show publicly for the first time how Soviet Russia has built up her armed forces under his six-month regime at a time when other large European nations have been at war.

The Moscow Soviet at a meeting last night issued a statement declaring Russia's policy to be continued neutrality and armed vigilance.

President Michael Kalinin in a lengthy address at the meeting warned that "the present international situation does not allow us to remain impartial onlookers x x x."

Listing bloodless conquests in Latvia, Lithuania, Estonia, and Rumania's Bessarabia and northern Dacovia, 45-year-old Timoshenko declared Stalin's "policy of peace" had resulted in remarkable new victories.

Moscow's residents were anxious to get a glimpse of the revamped Red Army. Reforms instituted by Timoshenko included stricter discipline, snappier marching and intensified training.

INCREASE IN THE NATIONAL DEBT LIMIT PLANNED

Washington, Nov. 7.—(A.P.)—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau said today that he would ask congress to increase the national debt limit to 60 or 65 billion dollars to care for possible deficits up to June 10, 1942.

Announcing this at a press conference, Morgenthau told reporters: "We've just begun to rearm."

He repeated the phrase three times to emphasize it.

The treasury chief said also that congress might be asked at the present session to make available for general financing the $4,000,000,000 which it authorized for special defense borrowing. That sum would be included in the 15 to 20 billions which Morgenthau said might be needed during the next fiscal year. The present debt limit, with this $4,000,000,000 included, is $49,000,000,000.

Asked whether it was conceivable that government expenditures could be put on a "pay-as-you-go" basis shortly, Morgenthau replied "I don't think it's possible."

He added that it would be "very helpful" if congress lifted immediately the restrictions which it put on the $4,000,000,000 additional debt authorization before January 1.

For a general increase in the debt limit, Morgenthau said that he and Daniel W. Bell, treasury undersecretary, would go before congress as soon as possible after the new session begins.

COOKE TO STICK

Philadelphia, Nov. 7.—(A.P.)—Jay Cooke, defeated Republican candidate for the U. S. Senate, has "no intention" of resigning as the party chairman in Philadelphia.

FIVE CRUSHED IN TUNNEL CAVE-IN

Pittsburgh, Nov. 7.—(A.P.)—Five negro workmen were crushed to death today by the collapse of a nearby Stowe township traffic tunnel they were repairing.

Eight men were in the tunnel at the time a section of the concrete roof fell but three, warned of danger by a "sudden loud cracking" noise, escaped. One of three, William Peay, 36, was injured.

Bodies of the five were dug out of the debris five hours after the accident by rescuers working with steam shovels.

The tunnel, about 15 feet high and 800 feet long, runs through a hill connecting two communities. It was condemned 10 years ago but recently, in response to complaints, the county commissioners ordered it repaired.

Peay, suffering from a possible fractured neck and lacerated head, said he and the others were loading a truck a short distance from the entrance. The rescuers reached him about 40 minutes after the crash.

UPSURGE ENTHUSES PA. DEMOS

With Voters Delivering to James Politically-Divided Legislature for Last Two Years of Term, Leaders Look Ambitiously Toward Governorship to Complete Their Control of the State Government

WILL HAVE MAJORITY OF 125 TO 83 IN HOUSE

Harrisburg, Nov. 7.—(A.P.)—Visioning "problems" in the 1941 session of the legislature, Governor James said that if either the Republican senate or Democratic house "thinks in terms of unity, we'll try to work in harmony with them for what we believe to be the best interests of the state."

The governor referred to the approaching session, where Democrats will hold a new majority in the house because of Tuesday's election, and commented:

"It ought to be rather interesting to say the least."

The Republicans retain senate control. A score of controversial subjects, including the ever-explosive topic of relief financing on an emergency basis, is on tap for the session.

"We're determined to build up an organization, which will 'win further victories,'" said Luther A. Harr, Democratic campaign manager after the 285,000 vote sweep for President Roosevelt, which pulled along with it control of the state house of representatives, the offices of state treasurer and auditor general and a pick up of four seats in the Pennsylvania delegation to congress.

Unofficial complete returns from the state's 8,118 precincts gave Roosevelt 2,168,593 votes to 1,884,847 for Willkie.

In his successful campaign for re-election, U. S. Senator Joseph P. Guffey polled 2,065,462 votes to 1,891,666 for his Republican opponent, Jay Cooke of Philadelphia.

Harr said he would call a meeting at Harrisburg within three weeks of the state committee and county chairmen to "begin solidifying the strength gained by Tuesday's election."

The Republican party dominated the Keystone State since the Civil War until the election of former Governor Earle in 1934.

WOMAN IS FOUND GUILTY IN SPY PLOT IN LONDON

London, Nov. 7.—(A.P.)—Anna Wolfolk, charged with Tyler Kent, discharged employee of the United States embassy, with violating Britain's official secrets act in a spy plot, was convicted and sentenced today to 10 years imprisonment.

Kent, previously convicted, was sentenced to seven years.

Miss Wolfolk, 37, is the daughter of a former Russian naval attaché to London. Kent was convicted last week but his sentence was postponed until after the trial of Miss Wolfolk.

Kent, a former code clerk at the embassy, had been charged before he was arrested, Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy himself helped British authorities in their investigation.

Both Kent and Miss Wolfolk were tried in secret sessions.

Justice Sir Frederick James Tucker told Kent he had been convicted of five offenses of obtaining and communicating documents which might be of use to Germany for a purpose prejudicial to the safety and interests of the state.

The charges, it was disclosed, related to four confidential documents which Kent allegedly took from the embassy. He also was convicted of stealing one of these documents.

The judge said he took into account, in Kent's favor, the fact that the papers did not actually relate to naval or military movements.

16 States To Observe 28th As Thanksgiving

New York, Nov. 7.—(A.P.)—Two-thirds of the nation will observe Thanksgiving Day on Nov. 21, the day to be designated by President Roosevelt.

Governors of these 16 states, however, have announced adherence to the traditional date Nov. 28, the last Thursday of the month: Arkansas, Florida, Connecticut, Kansas, Iowa, Nevada, Massachusetts, Oklahoma, North Carolina, New Hampshire, South Dakota, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Tennessee, Vermont and Maine.

PARTY LEADERS ARE QUESTIONED BY FEDERAL JURY

Joseph N. Pew, Jr., Republican Financial Backer, Meredith Meyers, Democratic Chairman and James Torrance Are Among First Called

AFTER WEEK RECESS

Philadelphia, Nov. 7.—(A.P.)—Leaders of the two major political parties in Philadelphia and Pennsylvania went before a federal grand jury today to tell, in the secrecy of the jury room, how much Republican and Democratic money was spent in Tuesday's election.

The grand jury, convened a month early, is investigating alleged violations of election laws.

"This, it seems to me, is a fishing expedition for mythical fish," said Jay Cooke, Republican city chairman and defeated candidate for the U. S. senate, as he entered the jury room.

"There wasn't as much money spent as usual," said John B. Kelly, Democratic city chairman. "I think this jury prevented anything like that. I expect this jury to investigate disfranchisement of 25,000 voters in the city, 90 per cent of whom were Democrats."

The first witness called was Joseph N. Pew, Jr., Republican financial backer, he emerged in five minutes.

The next witness, Meredith Meyers, Democratic state chairman, spent 15 minutes with the jury. He was followed by James F. Torrance, Republican state chairman.

At the grand jury's request, all the political leaders brought records of party finances.

The investigation got under way yesterday when representatives of the Philadelphia Federal reserve bank and 19 other banks in Philadelphia, Montgomery, Chester and Delaware counties appeared before the jury. They brought records of withdrawals in the four or five days immediately preceding Tuesday's election.

Yesterday's session was the first since last Thursday when the jury announced the investigation. The group recessed immediately, a spokesman explained, so as not to interfere with the election.

James Off 500,000 In Election Guess!

Harrisburg, Nov. 7.—(A.P.)—Governor James' pre-election estimate on the presidential vote in Pennsylvania Tuesday was more than 500,000 votes away from the results.

At a press conference last week, the governor jotted down his prediction on the winner and the anticipated victory margin and sealed the paper in an envelope.

He opened the envelope today and told newspapermen:

"My personal prediction was that we (the Republicans) would carry the state by 225,000 votes."

Complete, unofficial returns showed that President Roosevelt, Democratic nominee, piled up a plurality of more than 285,000.

Four States That Always Picked Winner Since Turn of Century Run True to Form

Washington, Nov. 7.—(A.P.)—Memo for future reference in 1941: Four states that always picked the presidential winner since the turn of the century ran true to form Tuesday. Ohio, Wyoming, Idaho and Missouri all wound up in the Roosevelt column.

Two formerly infallible states, however, backed the wrong man this time. The Kansas record, dating back to 1896, was broken when the state went for Willkie. North Dakota, on every ballot bandwagon since 1892, missed the 1940 ride by going Republican.

New Mexico and Arizona have the unique record of being the only states which have never given electoral votes to anyone but a victor. Maryland has the longest run of correct choices, beginning in 1888.

50,000 IN CROWD AT THE DEPOT

First Man In History of Country to Be Selected For Twelve Years in the White House, is Given Tumultuous Ovation On Arrival Back in Washington, After Visit At Hyde Park Where He Watched Returns From Election

LATEST TABULATION GIVES HIM 39 STATES

Washington, Nov. 7.—(A.P.)—President Roosevelt, first man in history to be selected for 12 years in the White House, told a well-coming throng of thousands today that he and the first lady liked farm life, but that of all the cities in the country they would rather live in Washington, D. C.

He made the statement with a laugh in a talk to a crowd which thronged the plaza outside Union Station upon his arrival from Hyde Park, N. Y.

The chief executive, fresh from his third term election triumph, thanked "my old friends of Washington" for their reception and added: "It isn't as if we (himself and Mrs. Roosevelt) were new people. Your turning out to see us means that we are getting on pretty well."

"And we are very happy, both of us, to be back here for a little bit longer."

"You all know how very much we like farm life, but of all the cities we would rather live in Washington, D. C., than any place else."

The President said he wanted to tell the crowd "how glad we are of the result two days ago" and reiterated that they were glad to return to Washington.

Mrs. Roosevelt, Henry A. Wallace, vice president-elect, and Mrs. Wallace rode with the President in his open car through things that lined the way to the White House.

Captain E. A. Sweeney of the district fire department estimated that 50,000 to 60,000 persons were gathered on the station plaza alone.

Near the spot where the President's car stopped for his brief address, the army band under Captain Thomas F. Darcy, first struck up "Happy Days Are Here Again," Mr. Roosevelt's 1932 campaign song.

ICKES OFFERS TO RESIGN HIS JOB

Washington, Nov. 7.—(A.P.)—Secretary Ickes submitted his resignation to President Roosevelt today offering to step out of his interior department post when and if the White House chooses to accept it.

Ickes told his press conference he rejoiced in Mr. Roosevelt's re-election and in offering to resign only to give the President a free hand should he desire to make a cabinet change.

Ickes acted similarly after the President's reelection in 1935, as is customary, but not all his colleagues in the cabinet followed suit.

He said he believed that all presidential appointive officials should do as he had.

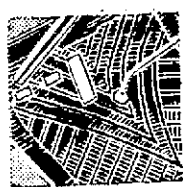

Only three of the President's original 1933 cabinet remain—Ickes and Secretaries Hull and Perkins.

LOCAL DRAFT BOARDS TO RECEIVE NEXT QUOTA OF MEN IN DECEMBER

Pennsylvania's 422 local draft boards, already called upon to supply 770 men for the U. S. Army between November 25 and November 29, may expect another call for a small number of men in December, it was announced today by Dr. William Mather Lewis, state selective service director.

Warren county's two local draft boards which were instructed to send one man each in the first call, will be asked to provide additional men in the second group next month.

The largest draft will come in February, Lewis said, adding that he has not been advised of the state's quotas for the coming calls.

Local draft boards in the state, already selecting the first few men for a year's military training under the conscription plan, are mailing questionnaires to their registrants at a rate of about 50 a day. Local draft board No. 1, of Warren, sent its first 50 questionnaires to registrants yesterday.

Some boards will require about 80 days to complete the process of mailing questionnaires, Lewis said.

The eight-page documents ask a variety of questions regarding the eligible's age, family connections, type of work, health, education etc., and are filed by the local draft boards.

These boards on the basis of information returned, classify the registrants into four groups, according to their health, number of dependents and work in essential defense industries.

The boards notify the men of their classification. If a man wishes to appeal, he notifies the local draft board and they then send the appeal to one of the seven regional appeal boards, the state director explained.

THE THRILL SPECTACLE OF THE YEAR AT THE LIBRARY THEATRE FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

"Foreign Correspondent" Breath-taking excitement, romance and drama, mystery and intrigue are unfolded in the thrill-packed story of Walter Wanger's "Foreign Correspondent," which was directed by Alfred Hitchcock with a prominent stellar cast and is slated for a gala premiere at the Library Theatre on Friday and Saturday. Mr. Wanger decided to make "Foreign Correspondent" in recognition of the intrepid group of American newspapermen who are serving as the nation's eyes and ears during the European debacle, risking their lives daily in order to keep their own people informed of the rapidly shifting panorama of war.

"Foreign Correspondent" has in its principal roles Joel McCrea, Laraine Day, Herbert Marshall, George Sanders, Robert Benchley, Albert Basserman, Edmund Gwenn, Harry Davenport and Eduardo Ciannelli. Following the completion of his sensational hit, "Rebecca," Alfred Hitchcock, known throughout the world as the master of screen thrillers, went to work on the script of "Foreign Correspondent," and with Joan Harrison and Charles Bennett wrote the original screenplay. James Hilton and Robert Benchley contributed dialogue to the final script.

"BOOM TOWN"

At the Columbia Theatre Today, and Friday.

Revealing the entire story of the thrilling drama of oil for the first time, with a story that is entirely one of action and with a star group that includes Clark Gable, Spencer Tracy, Claudette Colbert and Hedy Lamarr, "Boom Town" will open at the Columbia Theatre today, and Friday.

"Boom Town" is a cavalcade of oldsm as "Test Pilot" covered the dramatic story of testing thrills in the skies. It is a dramatic story of two friends who carry on through reversals and successes even when one marries the sweetheart of the other. The friendship breaks dramatically and is renewed just as dramatically when the unmarried friend breaks up an affair between his former sweetheart's husband and an adventuress.

Through this story run scenes of roaring gushers, flaming oil fires which burst out with TNT, blistering fist fights, a head-first dive into a street of mud to escape a rain of bullets, the hero on a bucking mule, a thrilling hold-up, a scrap between two dance hall girls and thousands of other fast-action sequences.

THE UNITED STATES GOES TO COLLEGE

Did you vote for Franklin D. Roosevelt or Wendell Willkie for president Tuesday?

Pardon us, but you didn't!

You voted for electors, who you hope and expect will vote in the electoral college for the candidate of your choice. That is the unique college to which all the United States goes, once every four years, to find out whom it has elected its President.

Those electors, for whom you really voted, will meet and THEY will vote for the presidential candidates. The result of their vote will be forwarded to Washington, there tabulated with similar votes in other states, and the result is the official election of a President.

A long way around to achieve a result everybody knows about anyway? Perhaps. Some people think it ought to be eliminated as a useless snarl of red tape, to say nothing of the possibility that the electors just might possibly get together and vote for somebody you didn't intend them to vote for at all.

There are many, for instance, like United States Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., who issued a statement in Boston last evening declaring "The electoral college is a relic of the past which serves no useful purpose and which makes it possible for a candidate with the popular vote to be defeated. In this, as in every other elective contest, let the people rule."

It all started when the country was young, and had fewer than 4,000,000 people, most of whom were not allowed to vote. Even this restricted suffrage was not trusted. It was felt that the voters ought to delegate the right to choose a President to a select group of respected citizens. These would be chosen by the voters for their standing and judgment, and they, in their wisdom, would choose anybody they thought best for President.

Their number, too, equal in each state to the number of senators and representatives, guaranteed minimum representation to each state as such, no matter how small.

But after this college had twice elected Washington, parties sprang up, and the idea became more and more firmly entrenched that the electors were to be pledged in advance to vote for a specific candidate, thus reducing them from a choice-making body to a mere transmission belt for a choice made by the voters themselves.

Thus we are reminded every four years of two things: first, that our government is more democratic today than when it was first set up, and second, that it is a federal union of sovereign states, and that our presidents are chosen by the vote of the people of the states as such, and not directly by the mass of all the people.

This sometimes produces the phenomenon of a President getting the required number of electoral college votes and being elected, while actually lacking a majority of the popular vote. That is because he may have great majorities in the states he carries, while losing others by only a few votes. This occasionally creates some bad feeling, yet it is hard to see that such feeling would be any less if a candidate turned up with a majority of 10 votes out of 50,000,000 cast.

This odd and atavistic "college" has been functioning for 132 years and bids fair to turn out many another "graduate"

The sessions of the college will be held this year, December 16, in the various state capitals, and 531 electors will send their votes to Washington in registered mail. Congress will tabulate the letters on January 6, and on January 20 Mr. Roosevelt actually will be sworn in for his third term.

The electoral college, which after all in this day and age, is only a correspondence school, used to get a trip to Washington after bygone elections, but in 1931 congress decided its duties were too routine to warrant the fare.

With excitement incident to the election subsiding, how about giving a little thought to the annual Red Cross roll call now being staged by the Warren County Chapter?

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—Personal notes off a New Yorker's cuff: That new show, "Panama Hattie," is a sort of Sailor Beware, with music. . . It's about some sailors in Panama who go a.w.o.l. . . Knowing they'll be court-martialed, if caught, they try to salvage the situation by attempting to capture a ring of spies. . .

It's very earthy and bawdy. . . If you stick your head out your office window and scan the skies for five minutes, the odds are 6 to 1 that you will see a plane. . . LaGuardia Field has 250 arrivals and take-offs daily. . .

The week's dumbest gag concerns the drunk who was on the 18th floor of a building. He wanted to go up to the 36th floor. Ringing for the elevator, he said "36th floor," and stepped into an empty elevator shaft, falling 18 floors to the ground. Scrambling to his feet, he indignantly cried, "I said UP!"

THERE are many fine passenger trains in the U.S. but only three are named for women. They are the Nellie Bly, the Rutledge, and the Pocahontas. The Nellie Bly is a newspaper woman who established a record by going around the world (in 1889) in 72 1/2 days. . . Ann Rutledge was an inn-keeper's daughter whose name is linked romantically with Lincoln. . . Pocahontas was the Indian girl who saved Capt. John Smith's life. . . But only the "Nellie Bly" touches New York. It plies between Manhattan and Atlantic City. . . The general release of "Gone With the Wind" is supposed to take place sometime in January, and

THE break-up of their marriage has never met well of Jack Dempsey's shoulders. News photographs of Dempsey in Hannah's presence show him morose and downcast. Recently she met him at the airport after he had taken their two children on a visit to his mother in the west. Questioned about the separation, Dempsey growled: "It wasn't anything I wanted." . . Watch for a song called "Dream Valley." . . Irving Berlin says it's the prettiest he's heard all year. . . Ethel Waters is dancing in public. Formerly she let it go by acting and crooning dusky-voiced laments. . . In "Cabin in the Sky," she does all three.

A Washington Daybook

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—For the first time, Armistice day finds more than 30,000 men who gave their lives in the World war sleeping in soil occupied by the enemy they fought to repulse.

Of the eight American military cemeteries overseas, six are in occupied France and one in Belgium. Only in the little Brookwood cemetery, 25 miles from London, where there are just 468 graves, are the men buried in earth still held by countrymen they fought shoulder to shoulder to drive the Germans out of France.

The cemeteries, as well as the many monuments and memorials that mark the American battlefields of the World war are, however, still managed by the American Battle Monuments commission. In charge of each is an American superintendent under direct supervision of the commission's Paris office.

Except for the difficulty of the Paris office in making its regular inspection tours and the fact that there are no visitors to these quiet spots which have been the destination or on the itinerary of so many American tourists, the cemeteries would hardly know that another war had swept over them.

Only Two Damaged

JAMES E. MANGUM, secretary of the commission, says that all but two of the cemeteries and all of the monuments escaped damage. In the case of the cemeteries, the damage was so slight that it was easily repaired. Miraculously enough, in neither case was even one grave disturbed, although all of the burial grounds were in the path of the Nazi tide which rolled across Belgium and on this time to Paris and beyond. Nor has there been any report of damage at Brookwood, although bombs have fallen in the vicinity.

In the Aisne-Marne cemetery near Belleau wood, a bomb burst near the chapel and slightly damaged the white marble structure. And in the Meuse-Argonne cemetery at Romagne-sous-Montfaucon, a bomb burst just inside the grounds, leaving a gaping crater, but doing no other damage.

Although there has been no tourist travel, one of the important factors in the activity of the commission, work of the office here was almost doubled when the Nazi blitzkrieg got under way and the cemeteries fell into German hands. Scores of mothers, wives and other relatives wrote to know if the cemeteries were damaged.

Has 14,231 Graves

OF the overseas cemeteries, the Meuse-Argonne is the largest. It has 14,231 graves and nearly all those men buried there died in the great Meuse-Argonne offensive. Beautifully landscaped inside a mile-and-a-half wall, the cemetery rises on a gentle slope to the large modern-Romanesque marble chapel that stretches its wings over what once was the great Hindenburg Line.

The Oise-Aisne cemetery near Pore-en-Tardenois is the second largest, with a few more than 6,000 graves. About 14 miles away are Chateau-Thierry and Soissons. The St. Mihiel cemetery is near Thicourt and less than an hour's drive from Nancy, Verdun and Metz. It has more than 4,000 graves. The Aisne-Marne cemetery has 2,228 graves and its imposing chapel rises against the hill that is covered with the massed foliage of Belleau wood. The Somme cemetery, between St. Quentin and Cambrai, is the resting place of nearly all the Americans who were killed serving with the British armies.

Smallest In Belgium

THE Suresnes cemetery is on the slopes of Mont Valerien, just five miles out of Paris. Smallest of all the overseas cemeteries is the Flanders Field cemetery half way between Brussels and Ypres. It has only 368 graves, in which are buried men who lost their lives during American fighting in Belgium.

Although thoughts of the "Unknown Soldier" always bring to mind the "Unknown" who is buried in Arlington, there are 1,647 "unknown soldiers" in the American cemeteries of Europe, buried in unidentified graves with only this marker: "Here rests in honored glory an American soldier known but to God."

Second Concert Association Offering Next
Tues. Presents Isaac Stern-George Lapham

Management of the Warren Concert Association announces today that a very fine program is in store for the second attraction of this year, the violin and voice recital to be given next Tuesday evening November 12, in the Woman's Club auditorium.

This concert, to be given by Isaac Stern, violinist, and George Lapham, tenor, was arranged earlier in the season than is customary for the benefit of the association's many members who go away for the winter and are unable to attend the offerings presented after the first of the year. Both of these young men are listed among America's rapidly rising young artists, enjoying repeated successes in the various music fields.

Though born in Russia, young Stern has lived in San Francisco since a small child. When he was six he started piano lessons under the direction of his mother, who had studied at the Imperial Conservatory in Petrograd. Two years later his interest shifted to the violin and he continued his studies with the San Francisco Conservatory and with Louis Persinger in New York. On returning to the west coast, he coached with Naoum Blinder, concertmaster of the San Francisco Symphony. A New York debut in 1937 was followed by appearances with the Chicago, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Portland and Seattle orchestras and coast-to-coast recitals.

George Lapham was born in Philadelphia and began his studies with piano also, making his debut as a singer when 16. One of the busiest of concert artists, he has made 15 oratorio appearances in the past season, with 12 engagements still to be filled; was soloist with the Philadelphia Orchestra at Robin Hood Dell; reengaged for the Philadelphia Bach Festival of 1940; and engaged as soloist at the Pennsylvania State Federation of Music Clubs the week of May 6 in Pittsburgh. In addition, he has been a featured soloist on regular radio program series in Philadelphia for eight successive years.

Their program for Tuesday's performance will be published later in these columns.

MEMBER DRIVE OF WARREN "Y" STARTS FRIDAY

The annual Call to Membership of the Warren Y. M. C. A. will open tomorrow evening with a dinner to be attended by members of teams which will participate in the campaign. The membership drive will continue until Friday, November 15.

"It is a familiar fact to the citizens of Warren that the only completely equipped interdenominational community center in the borough, dedicated to physical, mental and social needs of youth, is the Young Men's Christian Association on Liberty street," it was stated today by R. W. Reynolds, general secretary.

However, a fact that many people are not familiar with is that the Warren Y. M. C. A. is more than a community center," he said. "It is a radiating center. Its wholesome influence, the leaders it trains, the outreach which it enjoys increasingly affects the whole life of the borough. It is an ally of the churches, schools, homes and industries. It belongs to Warren." "We want you to know," said Mr. Reynolds, "that the dues are kept low--about one-half actual cost--in order that the privileges may be available for the largest number. Each year at this time it opens its membership to all boys and men of the borough. We want you to join with us. Join and use the privileges of the organization that is endeavoring to build better citizens. Join and your support and cooperation will help us attain this objective."

"Do Not Exclude Potatoes From Diet," Urges Mrs. Mabel Bowen, Pointing Out Valuable Properties of This Food

Dear Friends in Warren:

"Don't exclude potatoes from your diet in order to retain that firm figure as long as you cut macaroni, rice, oatmeal, chocolate cake, pie or doughnuts."

That advice comes from federal food experts who are concerned over the feminine tendency to eliminate potatoes from the daily diet. Despite a common and widespread belief to the contrary, potatoes are less fattening than many products which are most commonly considered to be fattening. Fresh-producing foods.

Eight ounces of the following foods compared with an eight-ounce potato revealed in actual tests that macaroni is four times more fattening, rice three and one-half times, oatmeal four times, chocolate cake four times, a piece of pie three times and a doughnut two times more fattening than the potato.

The white potato is an excellent blood-building food, for it contains as much iron as a medium fat beef-steak, twice as much iron as whole wheat bread and five times as much iron as cornmeal. In addition to the generous supply of minerals and vitamins, the potato is a fine neutralizer of disagreeable acids.

When properly prepared and cooked, the potato is important for its mineral salts and vitamins. If you want to save the most valuable minerals and vitamins you will cook potatoes in their skins. Baking, steaming or boiling with the jackets on does the job, but food authorities point out that not more than 15 percent of the potatoes consumed in the East are prepared in their skins.

Mealiness seems to be a quality desired by a great many consumers of potatoes. Rapid cooking and immediate serving are said to be the surest ways to get this quality.

The secret of serving a good boiled potato actually is not a part of the cooking process. The important step is draining the water from boiled potatoes immediately, to prevent waterlogging. The trick is in drying the potatoes by shaking them over low heat after they have been thoroughly drained.

Texture is the critical test of superior mashed potatoes. If boiled potatoes are to be served in mashed form, they should be put through the ricer as soon as they are done. Or mash them immediately, then put through the ricer to press out every small lump, before heating in hot milk (or milk and cream), butter and seasonings. Baked potatoes often are overcooked. The skin must be broken and pressed slightly to let out the steam as soon as the potato comes out of the oven. Stuffed baked potatoes are a welcome treat on the luncheon plate, and may take the place of meat, when grated cheese is mixed with the seasoned pulp, butter and cream. Grated cheese, or a slice of American cheese, may be used to top the stuffed potato, which goes under the broiler for a last-minute grizzling. Another topping is thin sausage slices, or tiny frankfurter slices.

In a recent statement, the commissioner of the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets remarked that consumer purchases of potatoes seem to be more conscious than ever about the variety they buy. The official considered this a favorable sign.

since "careful buying means more satisfied customers."

Some varieties of potatoes are better adapted for certain uses than other varieties. Getting the right variety means that the homemaker will avoid purchasing potatoes which she might find wasteful in preparing for the table.

The buyer will find it to her advantage to begin to learn fundamental facts about leasing potato varieties. Talk with your dealer about the different types and when you find a variety which appeals to you and that seems well adapted to your uses, insist upon repeat orders of that potato as long as it is available.

The average homemaker does not go adventuring with potatoes, but stays within the narrow bounds of boiled, mashed, fried, baked and hashed potatoes. Yet there are about 500 known potato recipes. Among timely suggestions are potato soup, scalloped ham and potatoes, potatoes au gratin, potato sponge bread, potato doughnuts, shepherd's pie, potato salad, potato peanut loaf and potato pancakes.

Piping hot french fried potatoes are delicious at this season. Scalloped potatoes creamy and steaming with milk, butter and seasonings are a close second in popularity. And how about making crisp brown potato pancakes some chilly night on that new streamlined aluminum griddle?

Did you buy YOUR car on "Millinery"?

You hear it said often nowadays that it's millinery that sells automobiles.

All right—let's put it up to one who knows. Did you buy your car on nick-nacks, trick devices, novelties?

We don't think so.

We believe that while considering style, and room, and comfort—you really picked your car on what it would do on the road!

Now, we take our hats off to no car for being smarter-looking than Buick. We'll match our product against any for room, for appointments, for fine finish, for comfort.

But beyond all that, we challenge the whole field to equal

Buick on its downright all-round performance ability.

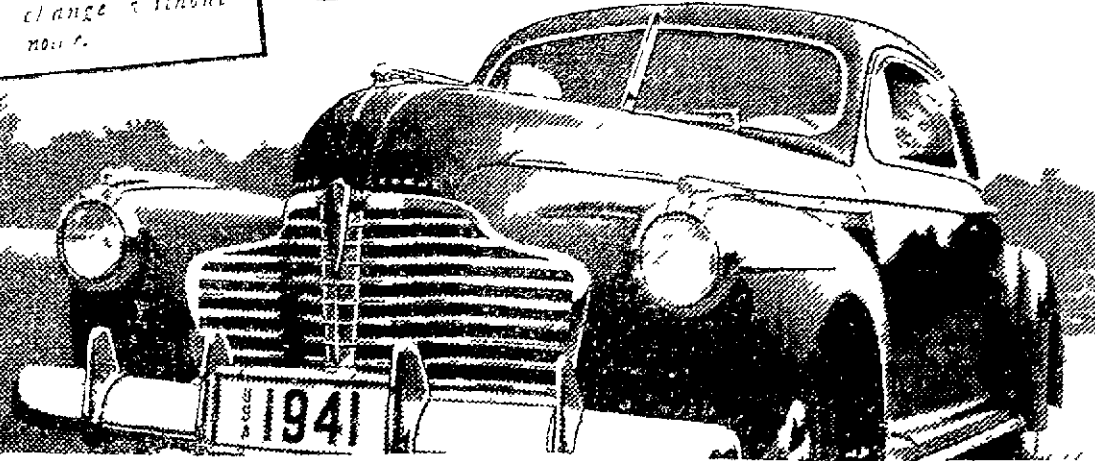

On its power—on its pull—on its pick-up—on its easy handling (including freedom from shifting)—yes, and on its thrift.

Nowhere will you find a car that does so much so well and so frugally.

You'll find novelties in the new Buicks of course, but they're not the chief attraction. Instead you'll see the two big basic engineering developments of the year—FIREBALL design and Compound Carburetion.

THE ROAD TO SHANI LUN

by Rita Mather Hanson

Chapter 35

The Orchid Door

TEMU opened his eyes in the morning to find Lynn sitting beside him and a Mongol guard at the door. Healthy color had returned to his face. His hands and feet were bound.

"I thought it best," she said. He made no remonstrance. A man came in bearing a basin of water and a shaving kit.

"I'll fetch your breakfast," Lynn said and left. His quietness had surprised her. But then, he was always surprising her, and she remembered that acceptance is part of the philosophy of the East.

When she returned, he was standing up, looking ruefully at the bonds on his ankles and wrists.

"Now," he said, "I know how a hobbled horse feels."

"Does that mean you will never hobble a horse again?" she asked.

"It means that I will never get into this kind of a predicament again if I can help it. What are you planning to do with me?"

"Hold you prisoner for a while." She had the guard bring in a camp box for Temu to sit on. She stood at his side and fed him cheese and tea and candied persimmons.

He bit her fingers and they were soon laughing together. "I'm helpless, tell me your plans," he coaxed.

"For one thing, I'm going to Delun."

"So I have always maintained," he jeered.

"But I am going of my own free will," he told her.

He looked at her with his clear, tea-colored eyes. "So you are, Tara Lynn."

"Chin Pak and I are riding on ahead to find out what luck Dick and the Duke of Sachto have had."

"I hope it's rotten," he grinned. "Your hopes don't seem to be coming true lately."

"I'll tell you this—if I have my way your Prince shall not be harmed. Neither shall he be imprisoned. I wonder if he would prefer to live in Paris or America."

Temu spoke sadly. "I surmise he would prefer not to live at all."

With his cheek, he caught her hand against his shoulder in the only caress he was free to give her. "I love to hear you talk, Tara Lynn. I wish I could put my arms around you."

She met his eyes and some imp of perversity prompted her. "If notice," she said, "that you wait till your hands are bound before you make that statement."

Lynn felt the next instant as if she had ignited a powder keg. With one motion Temu rose, burst the bonds on his wrists, took her in his embrace and covered her face with kisses. At first his violence frightened her. Then, when she had ceased resisting him they clung together for a moment, that opened into paradise. She broke away and ran to the door.

"Bind the prisoner's hands," she directed the guard. "He has broken the cords."

She did not go near his tent again. In half an hour she and Chin Pak were on their way. They arrived in Dorchi that night at dusk.

"Do you know the house where my brother and the Duke were to establish headquarters?" she asked Chin Pak.

"I show you," he said.

The town was a great trading station, with a motor road reaching to Delun and caravan trails branching out to Tibet, to India, to Sinkiang, to Russia, and across Gobi to the Pacific Ocean. About it were irrigated farms and orchards. The streets of the town hummed with an unusual activity, the hum of holiday or successful revolution.

Magnificence

CHIN PAK conducted Lynn to a semi-foreign house inside a walled garden. As Chinese servants met them and bowed her in, he disappeared. She ate dinner alone and felt rather lost. The servants could not talk to her or she to them. She longed for Little Bamboo and Gersing. Presently, walking through the rooms all elaborately furnished, she spied on a massive, rosewood table a pair of gloves. After she had seen Dick wearing. She realized he must have been here recently. A servant brought her a note from Chin Pak.

"We are success as planned. You go palace by morning. Wear Chinese dress. Servants know. I come. Reverence.—Chin Pak."

Lynn interpreted the note as best she could. Tomorrow would tell the tale if she were to have any power against her brother or not. And if not, what a tragedy her coming had brought to Sherdock, to Temu, and the Prince!

Despite firm intentions she woke very late the next morning and was dressed by servants who had feared to disturb her. Donning the Chinese dress was a slow and maddening process. After the bath and the painting and the powdering that made her look like an Oriental doll, they wound her from armpit to hip in bias folds of strong white silk and covered this with a trouser suit of heliotrope satin. They drew white socks on her feet and wrapped her ankles in neat spirals of apple-green silk. One dressed her hair in the Chinese fashion while another stood ready with a gown of heavy, yellow satin covered with a long, blue, sleeveless mantle embroidered in gold.

She asked at last distractedly for Chin Pak. He appeared as if he had been waiting long for her summons.

"Are you to go with me to Delun?" she asked.

"Yes, Missie."

"And if I should wish to summon Temu Darin, could you have him brought to the capital swiftly?"

"Yes, Missie, I arrange."

The serving woman bowed and giggled. One laid a white cape on Lynn's shoulders, fixed a lily in her hair, a gold clip on her chin and another between her eyes. Someone placed an apple in her hand.

She went down to the courtyard where a state automobile stood waiting, yellow silk curtains at the windows of the long, cream-colored limousine.

She asked Chin Pak about the apple.

"A lady-in-waiting take it when you pass the orchid door," he explained gravely.

It didn't make sense to Lynn. "Orchid door! To match my pajamas?"

He looked bewildered and Lynn laughed. She knew she was being silly. But all this robing and ceremony was getting on her nerves. And what was ahead of her? Probably more deadly ceremony. Then a struggle against Dick. Could she curb his greed for gold? Could she do the thing she wished to do?

And she remembered Temu Darin's query: "Can you imagine what it means to be loved by a million people with never a thought of criticism?"

Strange Journey

THE recollection thrilled and comforted her. Her chin went up. She put her hand to the charm box at her throat; it had brought her through so far.

She rode along in grandeur on a highway lined with merry-makers, the whole length of its sixty miles. There appeared no mourning for Sherdock's death or for the Prince's overthrow.

They climbed steadily towards the mountains. The climate and the scenery enchanted Lynn. Yet, under it all, she felt a strange depression as if, against her logic, something told her she had done wrong in opposing her will to Temu's.

As they approached the capital city, the road cut across a wide plain dotted with countless Mongol tents. At the gate-tower the driver slowed the car to a crawl. Firecrackers exploded. Confucius music waivered and keened. Sturdy Mongols craned their necks, voices heralding the approach of the Goddess.

Footmen opened the car door. A tall Chinese lady with two remarkably long fingernails on her left hand greeted Lynn.

"The Princess Mother! How does she feel about this?" wondered Lynn. The woman's eyes met her searchingly.

The Princess Mother conducted her down the long reception room to a passage where a lady-in-waiting took the apple which Lynn had carried so faithfully.

"The orchid door, whatever that means," thought Lynn, overcome for the moment by an apprehensive excitement, half pain, half pleasure. She stepped inside and stood alone trembling in a cool, dim, incense-filled room.

Somewhere a rich voice chanted the low and haunting melody of an ancient song. An orchestra of violins and great guitars, played in the courtyard below the windows. As the music died, she heard the rustle of silk, and through the shadows of the room, she saw a tall form, a Chinese costume of rich, dark silk come towards her with the stride of a man.

"Temu!" she gasped, and warm blood leaped to her face.

He bowed, his eyes blank, inscrutable, recalling to her mind that first encounter with him in the house in Pail Shu where a sense of his strange, personal power had so disturbed her.

"Chin Pak said you would be wanting me."

"But not now!" she cried. "Later, after I have seen Dick and know where I stand."

"I know where you stand. The power here is yours, not your brother's."

"Then Chin Pak has not betrayed us?"

"Chin Pak is faithful to his gods." He stepped closer. "You have made the Princess Mother very happy by coming in Chinese garb." He scrutinized her face, her hands, her hair, her tall and graceful form. Though puzzled, she stood proudly before him.

"Do I pass inspection?" she asked ironically.

"The Prince will be pleased, I am sure."

She turned on him swiftly. "What do you mean?"

"There was no revolution, Lynn. Your brother is on his way to Russia under guard. When he and the Duke of Sachto arrived at Dorchi, they were captured and dispatched to the north."

FARMER - ROTARY
DINNER HELD AT NORTH WARREN

More than 200 farmers and business and professional men attended the semi-annual Farmer-Rotary get-together dinner held last night at the North Warren Community House.

The program was furnished by the local Rotary club, with L. L. Blodgett acting as toastmaster in the absence of President Ogden Fitz-Simons. W. E. Yeager, vice president of the club, made the official address of welcome.

The principal speaker was L. F. Livingston, manager of the agricultural extension division of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Co., who took for his subject, "Research and Prosperity."

"Scientific research is responsible for more improvement in living conditions in the United States than any other one thing," he said in part, "whether that research is directed toward the development of a new plastic or the breeding of a new type of high wool-producing sheep. The results have benefited agriculture, industry and the American people. They have linked more closely than ever before the problems and interests of the farmer and manufacturer.

"Few people realize the vast amount of material coming from the farm which is now being used by industry, and the industrial use of agricultural raw products is still in its infancy. Such products as I have shown you tonight are having an important bearing on American present-day economy. In some cases they relieve us from dependence on materials once imported. In others they provide us with materials not previously obtainable."

Mr. Livingston exhibited a variety of new products recently developed through du Pont scientific research, including "Cel-O-Seal" cellulose bands, "Cel-O-Phane," "Cel-O-Glas" rayon cellulose sponges, "Pyralin" poryoxilin plastic, "Plasticale" cellulose acetate plastic, "Ducor" and "Dulux" finishes and a number of other articles made from nylon yarn, a new family of raw materials deriving basically from coal, air and water, and the chemical rubber, known as "Neoprene" which is made from coal, limestone and salt.

Special entertainment was provided by Calhoun, magician and Rainbow Jackson, both K. D. K. A. artists. During the evening, group singing was led by R. W. Reynolds, accompanied by Mrs. Katherine Randall.

Among those attending were Rotarians from Youngville and Sheffield clubs and a large group of Future Farmers of America.

Farmer reservations were handled by Stanley Laurence, secretary of the farm division of the Farmer-Rotary cooperation. The committee in charge of the program were R. L. Blodgett, chairman; George Cowden, H. A. Cray, C. F. H. Wuesthoff and O. C. Tritt.

Football Fatalities On The Decline For Fourth Straight Year

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 7.—(U.P.)—A gridiron vital statistics expert reported today that deaths from football were on the decline for the fourth year in a row.

Dr. Floyd R. Eastwood, record keeper for the American Football Coaches' and National Collegiate Athletic associations, said that only eight deaths could be blamed on the game for the first half of this season.

The figure has shown a downward trend since 1937, said Eastwood, an associate professor of men's physical education at Purdue University.

Five of the 1940 fatalities were ascribed directly to football and three—two from heart trouble and one from an infection—indirectly.

Directly attributed deaths numbered two less than for the same part of 1939. The decline was in the high school classification, where two deaths occurred against four last year.

Only one fatality blamed directly on football was in college competition—that of Jack Tandy, 21, of San Francisco State College, who died Oct. 27 of cerebral hemorrhage.

Another such death occurred in an athletic club game of touch football apparently regarded as less hazardous than the regulation game.

The victim, John H. Donaldson, 20, of Andover, Mass., died Oct. 1 of skull fracture suffered in collision with another player.

The fifth fatality of this kind was that of 34-year-old Kenneth Vinton of Seattle, Wash., Sept. 16 from an appendix ruptured by a kick in a sandlot game.

Other deaths: Directly attributed—Edmund Alubowicz, 17, Dickinson City, Pa., High School, Sept. 25, spinal injury; James Cholas, 18, Grand Junction, Colo., High School, Sept. 30, cerebral hemorrhage.

Indirectly attributed—Douglas M. Parsons, 21, Wheaton, Ill., College, Sept. 12, heart trouble; Merle Bailey, 14, Mount Airy, Ia., High School, Oct. 18, heart trouble; Carl Strong, 15, Winter Park, Fla., High School, Oct. 12, infection.

The Times Square Service Station which got cooled off last week for the first time was forced to split even by Bill Simonsen's Insurance team last night and lost valuable ground although retaining its leadership in the Elks Leading Knights division. The Lewis Markets took four from the Soda Minerals and moved into second position, four games off the pace, with the Hoagvall Hardware team slipping back to third spot although taking three from the Furman Radios. The South Side Market topped a trio from the Garland Inn and stepped into the first division. Don Hogan's 223 was high game and Barney Malone's 592 was best total.

Plate Floor, leading team in the Struthers-Wells circuit, took it on the chin from Machine Shop to the tune of three points and Foremen "B" stepped into the breach by copying the same number from Foremen "A" to move within two games of Plate Floor. The third place Heaters split even with the Engineers and Sales snared a trio from Process. Soda Mineral also took three from Anderson, of Machine Shop, led the way with 604 total pins and he and Stenkamp turned in identical high games of 223.

The Helmbrecht and Erickson teams, most abused aggregations in the Coneywango Club circuit, dropped their last night to the Youngs and the Lutz outfits. In the Young-Helmbrecht contest, the peerless captain of the victors had high total of 514, and an investigation into a dark horse, Johnny Carter, advertised by Young as "a new bowler" is being launched. "Mush" Kaltenbach's 200 was high single game and by far "Doc" Cashman unlimbered his strong right arm to pace the Lutz gentlemen to victory, but the startling performance of Rookie Ed Borden, who crashed through with high game of 199, was the sensation of the evening. Cashman topped high total with 545. Captain Erickson, with his leadoff man, Leon Laskaris and his cleanup kegler, Dean Anderson, musing (both snowed in), was forced to shuffle his lineup with disastrous results. Anderson, after last week's stellar performance, is reported to be a holdout, checking over Tuesday night's scores, the secretary discovered an error of ten pins in the first game which gave the Trevenons three instead of four points in their match with the Mullers.

SUPERSTITION

African natives are of the belief that if they eat any part of the body of a shrew, they will be rendered invulnerable to the attacks administered at San Jose State.

For Crying Out Loud

Louis vs. Al McCoy for the title. Good grief, if Joe hurdles that one, the least they can do is to give him a return match with Paycheck or a shot at Unknown Winston. Those Arkansas Razorbacks take the cake so far they'll win every other game and have failed to score on the "even" Saturdays. Got any hockey players to sell tickets or give away? Get in touch with Lou Giffels, manager of the Buffalo club. Guess who's leading the drive to have Fritz Zie elected ed sports figure who did the most to publicize Pittsburgh this year? That's right, Billy Conn. Mike Jacobs will present boxing runs to a half dozen military camps.

SPORT SCATTERINGS

When Meadville comes here on Monday, it will be the first time in sixteen years that the Bulldogs have graced Russell Field with their presence, and the second local appearance in the eight games played by Warren and Meadville since 1916. The Bulldogs were the Thanksgiving Day attraction on the Warren grid in 1924 and came back in 1937. In the first instance the Dragons defeated the Crawford countians 19 to 6, and in 1937 they won by a score of 14-0; so, the Bulldogs have yet to chalk up a victory at Russell Field. If the Leidigmen bounce off that terrific performance against Ridgway and reach the heights attained at Bradford the previous week, it is not at all improbable that the Meadville school will still be looking for its first victory in this city after the dust of battle clears away Monday afternoon.

The Blue and White has not done badly with the Bulldogs, considering the difference in size of the two communities. Only twice in eight starts have the Meadville gridders won—in 1929, when Warren High had its most unhappy season, the Bulldogs triumphed 48 to 0, and in 1935, when the present series was started, they were the victors, 14-0. When the two teams first clashed back in 1916 the Dragons finished on top, 9-0. They won again, as noted, in 1924, lost in 1929 and 1935, and have won three out of the four games played since, the other being a scoreless tie last season. The victories from 1936 to 1938 were 14-6, 14-0 and 13-0, and except for the 1929 debacle, the Bulldogs have scored only four touchdowns in seven games. Yet, because of that 48-0 count, they hold the scoring edge in the eight contests, 74 to 69.

Probably because he is operating with the Detroit Lions instead of the Steelers, we haven't heard much from Byron "Whizzer" White this season, and many grid fans will doubtless be surprised to know that at the halfway mark of the National Professional League schedule, the "Whizzer," who played against the Red Jackets in 1938, was the leading ground-gainer. As the league wound up its first half, White had 247 yards; Banks McFadden, of the Brooklyn Dodgers, rookie All-American from Clemson, had 240, and a yard behind was Tuffy Lee-wans, of the Giants, league-leader in 1936. Another slim yard behind was Parker Hall, Cleveland Rams' ace passer, who was judged the most valuable player in the loop a year ago. "Whizzer" was the league champion ball-carrier as a freshman with Pittsburgh in 1938.

November 7, 1920—The Blue and White avenged the 20-2 licking they took at Kane earlier in the season when they trimmed the boys from the hilltop, 20 to 7, Saturday at Russell Field in a game in which Kane was lucky to score. About all Kane had to offer was Byham, who just walked along with Warren men hanging to him, but fortunately for Warren he was all size and no science.

November 7, 1930—With the Warren-Jamestown game only two days hence, the Dragons are drilling hard to stop a team rated as one of the best the Red and Green has ever had. With a backfield composed of George and Andy Jackson, Olson and triple-threat Rudy Carlson, the Moonmen appear to be plenty tough. Wellman and Gregoris are very fast, hard-hitting ends who have been largely responsible for Jamestown's success this season.

MICHIGAN G. O. P.
Detroit, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Revised unofficial presidential vote totals, now virtually complete, tipped Michigan back into the Republican column this afternoon. With three of the state's 5632 precincts missing, the vote was: Willkie, 1,028,087; Roosevelt, 1,023,774.

paign song, and upon conclusion of his remarks the band swung into what Captain Darcy called the new Roosevelt favorite—"God Bless America."

The navy band held forth on a lower level of the Union Station as the President left his special train, and the marine band was on hand at the White House to welcome him back.

Smiling and waving his hat, Mr. Roosevelt rode slowly down Pennsylvania avenue between massed crowds that cheered and yelled. Segments of the throng broke off as his car passed and many ran along the way trying for a continuing view of the President.

He returned from Hyde Park, N. Y., where he watched the great Tuesday election sweep accord him an honor never before bestowed on any chief executive of the United States.

The decisiveness of that triumph was reflected in the hourly more complete tabulation of the nation's popular vote. With 119,168 out of the country's 127,245 voting units accounted for, the ballot totals stood:

Mr. Roosevelt—25,956,562.
Wendell L. Willkie—21,591,032.

The President had 39 states to his credit with a total of 468 electoral votes, while Willkie mustered 9 states and 63 electoral votes.

The big possibility of a change in this lineup appeared to rest with Michigan, where late Republican gains cut into the Democratic margin to slender 3,700 with more than 60 districts yet to report.

The Roosevelt victory, however, was not without encouraging aspects for his Republican opposition. The same figures which clarified his reelection, also proclaimed substantial Republican gains over 1936 when Mr. Roosevelt won 623 electoral votes to the 8 which two lone states yielded to his rival, Alf M. Landon.

In 1932 the popular vote went: Mr. Roosevelt 27,478,673, Landon 16,679,583, but in 1940 Willkie not only slashed fifty per cent off the numerical size of the Roosevelt plurality but piled up a record-breaking mountain of Republican ballots. Although the count was not yet complete, he already had surpassed the previous Republican high of 21,392,180 which Herbert Hoover reached in 1928 in his great "prosperity landslide."

With the last tally returns still dribbling in, Mr. Roosevelt had a multitude of affairs awaiting his attention. Problems of foreign policy, plans for greater assistance to Britain, and defense program details all promised to shove quickly into the background the election, its interests and controversies.

and tripped their bomb racks almost directly above crowds of thousands standing in the streets to watch the dogfights overhead.

Other Nazi raiders scattered bombs over a wide area from the south coast of England to Scotland.

Hitler's High Command reported heavy aerial blows against the British merchant marine.

Long-range RAF bombers retaliated by attacking the Berlin suburb of Spandau, the London Air Ministry reported, while other RAF bombers were dropping "a concentration of shipping" at Cuxhaven, Germany, and on a convoy of ships off Den Helder, Holland.

RAF night raiders also rained explosives on German "Big Bertha" gun emplacements at Cap Gris Nez, the Air Ministry said.

Berlin asserted that RAF planes which attempted to raid the capital were forced to turn back before they could drop any bombs, but the Nazi High Command admitted that attacks on "German territory" killed and wounded several persons.

In the smoldering British-Italian conflict in Africa, which may become the main theater of the war this winter, British headquarters reported that British troops recaptured Gallabat on the Sudanese-Ethiopian frontier.

An Italian communiqué today said the battle was still raging after British forces had attacked been repulsed and surged back to the attack again.
